Saumya Malhotra

The DPS Vasant Kunj flag is flying high yet again, this time at an international platform, in the sphere of sustainability. Saumya Malhotra of class 11 I has made it to the global top 10 finalists of the essay writing contest organised by the Trust for Sustainable Living, UK, and its NGO, The Living Rainforest, for her articulate, expressive and significant essay on 'Are Sustainable Cities Possible?'. She has been invited, along with a Teacher Champion (her mentor) for an educational visit to Dubai, where she will be awarded either a trophy or a medal, will visit Dubai's Eco City, and will have the opportunity to participate in an international debate on the subject of sustainable cities.

While Saumya has done well in several prestigious competitions and olympiads in the spheres of Science, Commerce and Mathematics and is also a Vice-Head Girl of the school, she has done equally well in the niche of national and international writing competitions especially those that centre around the themes of social relevance, such as:

1. Runner Up at the NanhiChhaan National Schools Essay Competition in 2015: For her 1000-word essays titled 'Gender equality is the Only Way Forward' and 'Sustain the Environment to Sustain Life'. At the 2-day National Finals held at the Vasant Valley School, New Delhi, she also made an impact as she presented her views on the highly topical subject of gender equality in a panel discussion. She received a trophy, a Firefox bicycle, an all-expenses-paid trip to the NIIT Neemrana Campus, and a cash prize of Rs. 150, 000, which was distributed equally among Saumya, the school, and an NGO of Saumya's choice, the Centre for Social Security Action and Research.
2. Gold Award at the 2015 Queen's Commonwealth Essay Writing competition (international): For her essay on "Fresh Perspectives: What a Young Commonwealth Can Do".
3. First Prize in the National Online Essay Writing Competition by SIV-G, in collaboration with SVPMT (National, open to College and School students): Organised by SIV-G (Self-Imposed Vigilance for Good Governance), in collaboration with the Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel Memorial Trust, Chennai, for her essay on "Integrity in Public Life – Sardar Patel's Mantra". Received Rs.5000 by cheque.
4. Second Prize in the Wordsmith Challenge (regional): Organised by the US Department of State and hosted by the United States-India Educational Foundation (USIEF) in association with the Fulbright Scholarship Program as part of the International Education Week, for her essay on the benefits of International education and studying abroad.
5. Won the Ashoka University Essay Challenge (regional): For her essay on social media, and was awarded Amazon gift vouchers worth Rs.10000. Was invited to and attended a writing workshop by the university's Centre for Writing and Communication, and a lecture by Associate Professor of Philosophy, Kranti Saran (Ph.D., Harvard).

Saumya is also an active contributor and member of the editorial committee of the school magazine, and writes for the official blog of the school's Consumer Care Council and is championing the anti-bullying initiative for the school.
